JOB READY

THE PROJECT

The JobReady project aims to address the gap between labour market demands and skills supplied in the hospitality sector by developing a short and innovative programme aimed at those who are not employed but are looking to acquire relevant job skills in hospitality operations. Partners from Iceland, Austria, Cyprus and Spain will collaborate to design a model that combines vocational training with work placements. This will enable people with fewer opportunities to acquire labour market relevant skills and improve their employability.

TRAINING OF TRAINERS: READY TO LAUNCH

The JobReady project is now entering a key stage: the implementation of the full training programme across the partner countries. This programme is the result of months of collaboration and development, including the finalisation of the Training of Trainers (ToT) module and the validation of all core materials.

The ToT framework equips VET professionals with the tools and strategies needed to deliver short-term courses that combine theory with real-world workplace experience. After piloting and review, all partners confirmed that the materials are practical, flexible, and ready for use in their local contexts.

Over the coming months, the project will roll out a training model that brings together:

- Digital learning modules.
- On-site internships in the hospitality sector.
- Certification of skills acquired through participation.

Learners will benefit from a structured learning pathway while trainers will receive guidance and resources to adapt the methodology to different settings.
